The Journal of Sustainable Development Indicators - JSDI is established as a premier international platform dedicated to addressing the most critical societal challenge of our era: achieving the sustainable development of energy, water, and environmental systems. Recognizing that the transition to a knowledge-based economy requires rigorous quantification, the journal provides a comprehensive framework for assessing sustainability through a diverse array of standardized, conventional, and innovative matrices. By prioritizing research that explicitly demonstrates the extent to which results address the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals or other vital issues impacting the well-being of global communities, JSDI bridges the gap between theoretical modelling and actionable policy learning.

The JSDI journal was established within the framework provided by the SDEWES Centre, the Smart Energy Systems Laboratory at the Faculty of Mechanical Engineering and Naval Architecture (University of Zagreb), and the EU-funded INITIATE project (Horizon Europe, Grant No. 101136775).

In accordance with the high academic standards of the SDEWES editorial tradition, all manuscripts undergo a stringent review process by at least two independent experts to ensure the highest quality of scientific integrity and technical relevance.

In total 17 manuscripts were published in Volume I, all of them reviewed by at least two reviewers. The Journal of Sustainable Development Indicators would like to thank reviewers for their contribution to the quality of the published manuscripts.
